Told in Their Own Words How Hughes and Roosevelt Would Have Acted With Germany, England, Mexico

Out of the din and confusion caused by the assertions, charges, and counter-charges which are being made by the Presidential candidates and their supporters, arises one question which many thousands of people are asking, and that is: "Just What Action Would Mr. Hughes or Mr. Roosevelt Have Taken in Dealing with Germany, England, and Mexico, Had They Been in Mr. Wilson's Place?"

With a view to throwing light on this subject, the editors of THE LITERARY DIGEST have carefully analyzed the speeches of Mr. Hughes, Mr. Roosevelt, and Mr. Wilson bearing upon our foreign relations.

In THE LITERARY DIGEST for October 14, the result is given in a very comprehensive article, in which are arranged in careful juxtaposition the public utterances of each of the three men upon the subject of our foreign relations. By means of this orderly arrangement the American public can get a very definite answer to the question raised.

Among other important articles in this exceptionally interesting number are:

The Appeal of "The Digest" is as Universal as its Scope

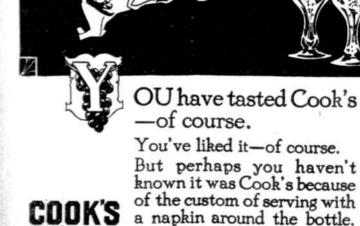

There is an old saying that it is impossible to please everybody, which is measurably true. There are exceptions to this, however. One of these is THE LITERARY DI-GEST. When you take it home every week you know you will please the whole family. Each issue contains matter for all tastes and for every taste. For father there is the political section, the foreign comment, the discussion of industrial and social issues of moment, and the advice on finance and investments; for mother, the articles on art, and literature, and religion and social service, and the book reviews; for the elder boy, science and invention, the war reports, and Personal Glimpses; for the elder girl, the art, music and current poetry; for the youngsters, the cartoons and the nuggets of humor in Spice of Life. And every page is clean, interesting, and packed with information. The news is real news, the comments are from all angles, the mirth without a sting. All this makes "The Digest" the ideal home news-magazine.
